Located in the heart of the picturesque South Wales Valleys its secluded and peaceful setting is the ideal location for a wedding, yet it is only minutes away from the major road network.

Originally built c.1550, the Manor has been restored as it was in 1645 when King Charles I visited to rally support for the Royalist cause during the Civil Wars of the 17th Century. The Great Hall of the Manor provides the perfect setting for an atmospheric candlelit ceremony for 50 guests, whereas the oak panelled Parlour is ideal for an intimate ceremony with up to 30 close family and friends.

The attractive formal gardens are lovely for a champagne and canapé reception in the summer months or for treasured family photographs.
