HMS Wales to help bring history to life by providing a unique historical immersion for visitors to experience, by going back to Admiral Nelson's time 1805 and the battle of Trafalgar. Knowledgeable and friendly reenactors will be ready to entertain, educate and interact with you as well as offering a unique Nelson Navy Challenge! The challenge is a series of stands, designed to allow you to get hands on with history.

Gun Deck: this includes a table full of the pieces a ship's gun would fire, such as cannon balls, that are small enough for most people to pick up and get to feel and understanding of how the guns worked. Coupled with this is the gun deck, a fake ship's gun, which allows kiddies to be taught the loading procedure for a sail ship's cannon. It is fun for all the family.

Armoury Stand: a table full of an array of replica weapons. From a real cutlass, to pistols, muskets, axes and pikes. There will be over a dozen different small arms weapons to let the public get hands on with history. This is HMS' second most popular stand after the gun deck.

Signal Stand: This stand will educate people on how sail ships would communicate and lets the public have a go at creating their own messages as well as "cracking the code" on others.
